Dear Brothers of Alpha Kappa Psi,

I first learned about Alpha Kappa Psi through a friend who rushed, and hearing about her experience immediately caught my attention. After attending recruitment events myself, I can now say that I understand just why AKPsi means so much to its members. Seeing how members connect and support one another has made an incredibly strong impression on me.

For most of my life, I have been pretty introverted and have often found it challenging to build strong connections or feel fully part of a community. Because of this, finding an environment where people genuinely support one another is so special to me. During recruitment week, I noticed how AKPsi encouraged us to step outside our comfort zones while still feeling supported by those around us.

I am currently an undergraduate marketing major and plan to add a public relations minor. I chose to pursue marketing because it allows me to be creative while thinking strategically about how people communicate and connect. I enjoy collaborating with others and bringing ideas to life, and I am always eager to learn and motivated to continuously improve. Being part of a community like Alpha Kappa Psi, where that mindset is shared and encouraged, is a major reason I am drawn to the fraternity.

My professional experiences have played a major role in shaping who I am today. As an office manager at a psychiatry office, I work in a fast-paced, people-focused environment that requires empathy, professionalism, and strong communication. I have learned that leadership is not about control but about listening, accepting criticism, and working collaboratively. It is okay to ask for help, and doing so often leads to stronger outcomes and better teamwork. Managing sensitive situations and supporting both patients and providers has strengthened my accountability, adaptability, and ability to support others, qualities I am excited to bring to AKPsi.

I truly value Alpha Kappa Psi's commitment to developing leaders who value both professional excellence and personal character. I believe that success comes from learning from others and being willing to support those around you, and I am genuinely excited about the possibility of joining an organization that challenges its members to grow, supports them, and encourages them to lead with integrity. I am ready to be an engaged and committed member of AKPsi, and I would be honored to contribute my energy, creativity, and dedication to the fraternity.

Sincerely,

Logan Powell
